

Statement from Lynda Stephens, 266 Hartwell Road, NY 14216

Thank you for this opportunity to share my views on budget prioritizing. Please consider my recommendations during development of the 2008-09 State Budget. I am aware of fiscal challenges facing NYS. This is not a new occurrence.

1. Support for cities is essential. Substantial research confirms that the economic well-being of a region is directly tied to the economic well-being of its central city. New York State's past spending policies have directed monies towards towns at the expense of urban areas; specifically, expansion of suburban schools, and road, water and sewer infrastructure expansion in towns. New York's spending policies have facilitated sprawl, racial segregation, economic segregation and concentration of poverty in cities.

Erie County and Buffalo presents a textbook case. The United States 1970 Census shows median household income for the City of Buffalo in the middle of the list of the 25 towns and three cities in Erie County. The range was $8,581 lowest (Town of Tonawanda) to $13,212 (Town of Grand Island); Buffalo was $10,430. In 1970, the highest median household income was 54% higher than the lowest. The 2000 Census showed Buffalo with the lowest median household income, $24,536, and the Town of Clarence at $68,003 – that is 177% higher than Buffalo's, more than triple the percentage difference compared with 1970 data. I have attached a Census data chart for you to review.

2. Education spending should be driven by goals of equal opportunity and economic and social justice. Please continue education financing reform.

3. Provide strong support for arts and cultural organizations. Recent studies show that the return on investment in arts organizations is $9 back for each $1 spent by government. Strong support makes good economic sense and also promotes good quality of life, a factor in attracting new businesses.

4. Make tourism promotion a priority. The budget should include substantial increases for all aspects of tourism, including cultural tourism. New York State should support its second largest industry. Other states with lots less to offer (no bias here) have much more funding dedicated to tourism promotion. Making tourism a priority will increase state revenues generated by visitors, many from outside of NYS, and will help create tourism-related jobs for state residents. This one is a real "no-brainer".

5. Reform New York's Medicaid program away from being a middle class program. Here I refer to the practice, legal in NYS, of affluent children making their parents prematurely indigent to qualify for Medicaid nursing home support, and we all pay for the rainy days. This is an enormous cost to stat taxpayers. If these well-to-do people want Mom's money, let them take care of Mom. I continue to hear about this from my friends who are social workers.

Thank you. Good luck in your deliberations.
